Hello Jesus,

Thank you for your email. In your email you identified that you were having certain issues with Joy. We do not know the circumstances of your interactions with Joy but clearly there is some history between the two of you.

SERAG is a volunteer organisation with an environmental purpose. We hope that our volunteers have an enjoyable time when they work together. We expect our volunteers to respect each other and not to act in a manner which would upset or distress another volunteer. If that does occur we will advise the offending volunteer that they may no longer attend our events.

To avoid any issues in the future, we suggest that when you attend future SERAG events you do not engage with Joy but work with other volunteers.

Best Regards,

Margaret

Dear Margaret,

I hope this email finds you well. Thank you for hosting that volunteering session last Saturday and for Sue's baked goods in which I really enjoyed.

I just want to make it known that some concerns regarding a volunteer's rumour spreading and indirect bullying have occurred to me. While Joy has worked hard to get into this position, I feel that I have been personally attacked by her whilst volunteering for SERAG.

On Sunday, Harshit had informed me that Joy has recently made allegations to the UWA guild that I have made people uncomfortable and that I have made volunteering hard for
